Bill King II
Director of Publicity

To the Media:

The Milwaukee Bucks would like to welcome members of the media to the Milwaukee Arena. Our entire organization has an appreciation for your efforts and aims and will assist you in any way possible. In return, the coverage the media has afforded us throughout our years in the NBA has been superb and we appreciate your dedication. The following are some of the services we will provide and some of the things we ask of you to help us run our operation smoothly.

* Individual game credentials should be requested the day before the game, 5 p.m. Friday for Saturday and Sunday games, or noon the day of Monday games. Pre-arranged credentials may be picked up at the will-call window in the southwest corner of the Arena just off the Kilbourn Street entrance. Credentials are good for admittance to the Arena, Press Room, and home and visiting locker rooms. Media members holding Bucks' season passes should notify this office of their intentions to cover a game in order to reserve seating on the press table. All press seating in the Milwaukee Arena is on court level.

* The press room is located on court level in the northeast corner of the Arena. The room opens 1½ hours before the game and again at halftime and following the game. Secure storage of typewriters, coats, and the like is available. We must limit press room usage to members of the media only when valid Bucks' press passes are presented. It is impossible to accommodate family members, friends, guests, or others. The professional intent of the room is to provide a meeting and working place for bonafide writers, reporters, broadcasters, and game personnel

* Both the Bucks' and visitors' locker rooms will be open up to 45 minutes before game time and ten minutes after the game. Your cooperation is asked in maintaining a work atmosphere in the locker rooms for post-game interviews. Those newspapers with morning deadlines and TV stations doing live spots should be given preference in obtaining players and coaches. Basically, common courtesy should prevail.

* Special instructions for all cameramen can be found on the back of the season photo passes and on the envelopes in which the single game passes are issued.

* Pre-game press notes, lineup and scoring sheets, and the current program insert will be available in the Press Room before the game. Programs will be available on a limited basis. Play-by-play, quarter stats, and half-time box scores will be delivered directly to the press table. Please keep sets quarter-by-quarter. A limited number of play-by-play sheets and halftime boxes will be available in the Press Room after the game. Complete final boxes and fourth quarter play-by-plays will be available after the game in the Press Room.

* The Bucks provide complimentary telecopier service at every home game. Harold Lewis operates the service. Special arrangements to file off day stories or the like can be made through the Bucks publicity office. Any writers who need to rent video relay terminals to file stories, should contact the Bucks publicity office at least one week in advance of the game to secure arrangements.

Cordially,
Bill King II

1984-85 SCHEDULE FORMAT

Under a timetable that has been in effect the past four seasons, the 1984-85 NBA schedule will run 171 days and encompass 943 regular season games. Opening night for the League's twenty-three member teams will be Friday, October 26. The Bucks premiere the 17th edition of the club at home in the Milwaukee Arena on Saturday, October 27 against the Chicago Bulls. The regular season concludes Sunday, April 14. The 35th Annual All-Star game will be played in Indianapolis on Sunday, February 10. The mid-season classic will once again feature the League's top talent.

The longest homestand of the season for the Bucks encompasses a five game stretch and runs from March 6 through the 16th. There is also a four game homestand in mid-January from the 11th through the 18th. The schedule calls for the Bucks to play at home on 21 weekend dates including six Fridays, 10 Saturdays (nine at night and one in the afternoon), five Sundays (two afternoon and three at night). In addition there are two Monday games, eight Tuesdays, six Wednesdays, and four Thursdays. One of those Thursday dates, January 3 to be exact, has a special starting time of 6:30 p.m. in an effort to attract an after-work crowd directly from offices to the Milwaukee Arena. Another special starting time is Saturday, December 8 for a 1:30 p.m. tipoff time. That game will be geared towards youngsters with a special promotion.

The longest road skein of the season encompasses six games and occurs twice during the season. The first extended road trip begins November 10 in Detroit and includes stops in Atlanta, two games in Los Angeles, Phoenix, and closes out November 20 in Dallas. The second extended trek being January 24 in Kansas City, a swing through Texas with games in Houston and San Antonio, before heading for games on the west coast against Golden State, Seattle, and finishing with Portland February 2. Milwaukee will close the regular season Saturday, April 13 with the New York Knickerbockers.

The home road split of games is fairly well balanced except for the months of November and February. By months the Bucks split their schedule at; October, 2 home and 1 road; November, 6 home and 9 road; December, 8 home and 7 road; January, 7 home and 6 road; February, 5 home and 9 road; March, 9 home and 7 road; and April, 4 home and 2 road.

With the addition of the NBA's 23rd franchise, the Dallas Mavericks, four seasons ago, and the subsequent restructuring of the League by division and conference, the Bucks will face their eleven Eastern Conference opponents six times each (except two clubs). Milwaukee will play their Western Conference rivals just twice. The home/road appearances vs. each club will be divided in half.

The Mississippi River is the dividing line separating the Eastern and Western Conferences. In order to determine which teams would play uneven amounts of games against teams within their own conference, the schedule was prepared by assigning teams within a division numbers one through five or one through six. Blind draws were held to assign a team the schedule which corresponds to the number it selected. Milwaukee drew uneven games against Boston (who will visit Milwaukee twice) while the Bucks will play in Madison Square Garden against the Knickerbockers two times.

The current schedule format was adopted by a vote of the NBA Board of Governors in the summer of 1979. The schedule is similar to that of the past five seasons when the format was designed to enhance inter-conference rivalries and save on travel expenses. Thus the Bucks remain in the Eastern Conference for the fifth consecutive year having entered the NBA in 1968 in the east (Phoenix entered the west the same time) and switching to the Western Conference for a short period in between.

The two Arena appearances by the NBA World Champion Boston Celtics will be Sunday, December 30 and Tuesday, April 2. The NBA's top collegiate pick, Akeem Olajuwon, will make his Milwaukee debut Wednesday, December 26 with the Houston Rockets. A single stop is to be made by NBA scoring champion Adrian Dantley and the Utah Jazz Sunday, December 16. Thanksgiving holiday games are to be played the night before Thanksgiving on Wednesday, November 21 vs. the Chicago Bulls and the Saturday after Thanksgiving with the Golden State Warriors.

The general rule of thumb for games times in the Milwaukee Arena is: Sunday through Thursday 7:30 p.m., Fridays and Saturdays 8:00 p.m. The exceptions are the aforementioned Saturday/Sunday afternoon games (three total), one early evening game at 6:30 p.m. on January 3, and four Sunday 7:00 p.m. starts to accommodate a possible national telecast on superstation WTBS.

A total of 66 League games are scheduled for network television coverage during the regular season. CBS Sports will televise 11 contests, including the All-Star game, while WTBS will televise 55 games primarily on Sunday and Thursday nights.

In the friendly confines of the Milwaukee Arena, the Bucks have won over 70% of their games in the sixteen year history of the franchise.

NBA PLAYOFF FORMAT

CHANGES IN NBA PLAYOFF STRUCTURE

The NBA's Board of Governors, at its annual summer meeting in New York in June of 1983, adopted a resolution that makes two major changes in the NBA's playoff structure beginning with the 1983-84 season:

1. Sixteen teams shall qualify for the playoffs. There shall be eight teams from each conference with the best winning percentage during the regular season.

2. The first round of the playoffs shall be a best-of-five series (instead of best-of-three) with all succeeding rounds, including the NBA World Championship Series, being best-of-seven. All teams will participate in the first round; byes that formerly went to division winners have been eliminated.

Following are the playoff pairings:

Note: Team 1 in each conference is the division winner with the better record, Team 2 is the other division winner and Teams 3-8 are ranked according to their regular-season winning percentage.

TIE-BREAKING PROCEDURE FOR PLAYOFFS

Following is the tie-breaking procedure that is used to determine teams qualifying for the 1985 NBA Playoffs.

Two team ties:

1. Results of games against each other.
2. Winning percentage within own conference.
3. Winning percentage within own division (only if tied teams are in same division).
4. Winning percentage against playoff opponents in own conference.
5. Point differential in games against each other.
6. Point differential between offense and defense.

Multiple team ties:

1. Cumulative winning percentge in total games involving all tied teams.
2. Winning percentage within own conference.
3. Winning percentage within own division (only if tied teams are in same division).
4. Winning percentage against playoff opponents in own conference.
5. Point differential between offense and defense.

Notes:

1. Any ties involving the championship of a division are broken first.
2. If a multiple-team tie is reduced to a two-team tie at any point using the above criteria, that situation is then resolved by using the procedures outlined for two team ties.

Magic Number:

To determine the magic number add together the total games remaining for both clubs, divide by two, and subtract the number of games one club leads another by. That figure is for a tie, add one and you get the magic number.

BUCKS SUMMER BASKETBALL CAMPS
Ron Blomberg — Director

For every Milwaukee Bucks player, there are hundreds of young people who dream of the fame and fortune of a possible NBA career.

The Milwaukkee Bucks Summer Basketball Camps annually bring those would-be stars closer to their fantasies and goals.

The week-long day and boarding camps for boys and girls aged 8-18 feature some of the top high school and college coaches in the Midwest.

Individual attention is stressed at the 15 campsites. The ratio of campers to instructors is approximately 8 to 1, meaning that players are referred to not by the color of their hair but by their first names.

Since the camp program's inception in 1969, more than 50,000 young players have taken part.

Even though the camp program was recently purchased by the MacGregor Sporting Goods Company from Medalist Industries, the philosophy of the program has not been changed, according to camp director Ron Blomberg.

"The idea we've developed has survived the test of time," Blomberg states proudly. "The camps not only deal with teaching the mechanics of basketball, but they also involve some positive 'spinoffs': strengthening the values of the youngsters and helping them reach for their full potential as individuals both on and off the court."

Blomberg is an appropriate choice to supervise the operation of the camps. A University of Wisconsin graduate, he was a high school teacher for 25 years and a successful basketball coach most of that time. During his 22-year coaching career, he led Peshtigo, Wayland Academy, and Brookfield Central to a total of 11 conference championships.

Blomberg pioneered the Bucks camp concept when he was an administrative assistant for the team.

He is the principal color analyst for University of Wisconsin basketball games on a Madison radio station, and has performed the same duties on Bucks radio and television broadcasts.

During the 1970's, he was tabbed with the nickname, "The Professor," a tribute to his basketball expertise.

Blomberg is the father of two sons and two daughters and has five grandchildren.

1984-85 RULES CHANGES

1. The seven non-playoff teams will compete in a lottery to determine who gets the first seven picks in the 1985 college draft. Playoff teams will pick in order of their record, worst record number eight and so. From the second round on, teams pick in order of their record.
2. The draft will go only seven rounds instead of ten.
3. The championship series has been changed to 2-3-2, meaning the team with the best record would play first two and last two at home. The best record team could choose the middle three games instead of the first and last two if it wanted.
4. The penalty for fouling a player who is going for a breakaway layup is two free throws plus possession of the ball is retained.
5. The game clock will stop after all baskets and dead ball situations in the first three quarters in the final minute of the quarters. The clock will stop, as in the past, in the last two minutes of the fourth quarter.
6. A coach need not file a protest of a game with the official scorer during a game but can submit the protest to the League within 48 hours.
7. Each team will get three timeouts instead of two in each overtime period.
8. The fine for a player or coach not leaving the court immediately at the conclusion of a half or game has been raised from $100 to $500 and the fine for players leaving the bench during a fight on the floor has been raised from $150 to $500.
9. Approval of a franchise shift need only get a majority of the owners instead of the previous 75%.
10. The time between the first and second quarters and between the third and fourth quarters has been increased from 100 seconds to 130 seconds

MECCA'S GEOMETRIC COURT
Designed by Robert Indiana

The design on the court you see before you was developed by Robert Indiana. Indiana has said of himself, "I am an American painter of signs charting the course. I would be a people's painter as well as a painter's painter."

Succinctly he has explained his aims, and at the same time the reasons for his success, of which there can be no doubt. Since his first art show in 1960, Mr. Indiana's art has been seen and acclaimed internationally. The floor design along with LeRoy Nieman's "Basketball Superstars" painting for the 1977 All-Star Game in Milwaukee is the second major piece of art nationally recognized to have originated from Milwaukee.

Robert Indiana has established a lasting reputation as an artist who paints America. He paints about his country, its people, and about himself; as well as about the traditions and cultures we all know. Because his art speaks of the nature of our land and the American people, Robert Indiana is destined to be among the great American masters such as Winslow Homer, Thomas Eakins, and Edward Hooper.

Indiana is one of the leaders of the Pop Art movement of the 1960's and 70's. The trademarks of his art are the lettered signs, directional symbols, commercial illustrations, precise shapes, and intensely active colors. His art has been referred to as American as apple pie. He deals with signs of life in both vocabulary and form. Like highway signs, his paintings are geometric shapes with bright, bold numbers and letters upon them. LOVE is perhaps his most famous series of paintings.

Claiming the same hometown as former Buck Kent Benson in New Castle, Indiana, Mr. Indiana's works are on display accross the country, and such institutions as the Carnegie Institute of Arts in Pittsburgh, the Chicago Museum of Contemporary Art, the Metroplitan Museum of Art in New York City, Yale and Princeton Universities, and the Milwaukee Art Center all own works by Indiana. Previously Indiana has been commissioned to redesign the U.S. one cent piece by ART IN AMERICA, to create a mural for the New York State Pavilion at the New York World's Fair, and by the United States Government to design a Special Stamp for Someone Special in the denomination of 8 cents and issued originally in Philadelphia in 1973 to name a few prominent works.

Robert Indiana has lived and worked in New York since 1954.

The court itself is the same that has been in use during past seasons. Before being painted, it was completely refinished and sealed. Indiana signed the court of the southwest corner with a can of spray paint and a specially prepared stencil. Mr. Indiana also designed the banners that hang above the upper parquet around the Arena. The colors will also be picked up in the outer lobbies as MECCA plans to refurbish those facilities. Total cost of the project approaches $40,000 with a portion of that to be recouped by the sale of banners and posters similar to those in the Arena.

BUCKS HISTORY — THE FIRST DECADE

Kareem and Commissioner Kennedy

On October 16, 1968, before a crowd of 8,467 at the Milwaukee Arena, the Milwaukee Bucks made their National Basketball Association debut. The Chicago Bulls, however, won 89-84. The Bucks first win came in their sixth game, a 134-118 victory over Detroit on October 31, 1968. The Bucks went on to win 27 games and lose 55 in their first season, but set a home attendance record for a first year team, averaging 6,246 fans at the Arena. Guard John McGlocklin led the team in scoring with a 19.6 average; forward Greg Smith was the leading rebounder, and guard Guy Rodgers was the playmaker.

The Bucks last place finish in the East Division and the last place finish in the West by the other expansion team, the Phoenix Suns, qualified the two teams for a coin flip to determine rights to the number one choice in the college draft. On March 19, 1969, NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy flipped the coin. Phoenix chose heads, the coin came up tails, and on April 2, 1969 the Bucks signed 7-2 Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of UCLA.

Abdul-Jabbar became an instant superstar, teaming with McGlocklin, Smith, rookie Bob Dandridge and Flynn Robinson in leading the Bucks from the cellar spot to a runner-up place in the East. The Bucks won 56 and lost 26 that year and then defeated the Philadelphia 76ers in five games. 360,650 fans watched the Bucks at the Milwaukee Arena, an average of 9,490 per game. Following the season, the Bucks made ther biggest trade — getting All-Pro Guard Oscar Robertson from Cincinnati for Flynn Robinson and Charlie Paulk. Just prior to the start of the 1970-71 season, Bob Boozer and Lucius Allen were acquired from Seattle for Don Smith.

With Kareem, Robertson, McGlocklin, Dandridge and Smith forming the starting five and Boozer, Allen and Dick Cunningham providing backup, the Bucks ran away with the Midwest Division in the newly aligned four division league setup. The Bucks won 66 and lost only 16 games, in the process setting six league records; home wins, 34; road wins, 28; field goal percentage, .509; field goals, 3972; and assists, 2249. In playoff competition the Bucks dispatched San Francisco and Los Angeles in five game series and then blasted Baltimore four straight for the World's Championship, only the second time in league history that the title series ended so quickly. In winning the World's Championship, the Bucks had come further, faster, than any expansion team in the history of major professional sports.

Abdul-Jabbar

In 1971-72 the Bucks made the playoffs for the third straight year, winning the Midwest Division for the second year in a row. The Bucks elevated Wayne Embry to the general manager post and named William Alverson, a legal advisor to the club since its beginning, president in March, 1972.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar earned the league's MVP honor for the second straight year, averaging 34.8 points per game and leading the NBA in that department. The Bucks found defense of their World Championship title difficult. The Bucks desposed of Golden State in five games. The "super series" for the Western Conference championship matched the Bucks against the Los Angeles Lakers, a contingent that had run a 33 game winning streak during the season before being derailed by the Bucks on January 9. The Bucks battled the Lakers in six exciting games before falling four games to two.

Kareem and Big O

The Bucks completed the 1972-73 season with a 60-22 record, the only NBA team in history to post sixty or more wins in three consecutive seasons. The sixty wins were posted despite an unusual season which found the Bucks plagued by injuries. Coach Larry Costello had his full roster available for barely more than half of the 82 game schedule. The Bucks finished the year with an NBA record of 14 straight victories to end the season, and entered the first round of the playoffs against Golden State. Possibly wearied by the whirlwind of winning the 14 games and the final race with the Lakers for the Western Conference title, the Bucks were surprised by a deep Golden State Team, and fell 4-2 in the opening round.

The Bucks were one game short of their fourth consecutive season with 60 regular season wins or more in 1973-74, finishing the season with a 59-23 record. Numerous injuries during the season often put the Bucks in a manpower shortage situation, but the club rallied to offset the absence of various players at different times of the year. The most serious injury sidelined Lucius Allen for the last few games of the season and all of the playoffs. Allen tore a cartilage in his knee in a game March 15 in Detroit, and underwent surgery the following day. The Bucks again topped the Midwest Division and eliminated Los Angeles 4-1 in the playoffs and dispatched Chicago without delay 4-0. In the championship round against Boston, the Bucks faced a troublesome press that continually dogged their game. The series was highlighted by a double-overtime sixth game which the Bucks won in Boston, to knot the series at 3-3. In the NBA Championship round's final seventh game, the Bucks were defeated by the Celts 102-87.

In 1974-75 the Bucks endured what might have been their most frustrating season on record. A pre-season broken hand kept Kareem Abdul-Jabbar sidelined for the first sixteen games of the season and the club was 3-13, putting themselves too far behind Midwest Division rivals to ever recover. A mid-season knee injury to All Star guard Jim Price sidelined him for the last half of the season. Kareem, Price and Bob Dandridge were named to the All Star team, the first time in club history that three members had been named to the honor squad. Although the Costello trademark of defense was upheld (the club's allowance of 100.7 points per game was the fifth best in the league), their 38-44 record put them in last place in the Midwest Division. The club's longest winning streak of the year was five games, and the team stayed in contention for the wild card playoff berth until the last week of the season. The Bucks lost 18 games during this fretful year by five points or less, and 11 of those losses were by three points or fewer. Kareem was third in the NBA in scoring while Bob Dandridge finished 18th with a 19.9 point per game clip.

On June 16, 1975 the Bucks executed one of the most momentous trades in pro basketball history by sending Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and reserve center Walt Welsey to the Los Angeles Lakers in exchange for center Elmore Smith, guard Brian Winters, and two All-American rookies, David Meyers and Junior Bridgeman. The Milwaukee Bucks entered the 1975-76 season with a new, young running team, perhaps the youngest in the NBA.

The young talent faltered at first, losing the first five games of the season before posting a win over Detroit on November 4, 1975. As the season progressed, all four players obtained from Los Angeles for Abdul-Jabbar proved to make important contributions. Smith became a consistent performer at center, leading the team in rebounding during the season with a 11.4 per game average. Brian Winters put his marksmanship to work to average over 18 points per game and make the NBA West All Stars. Winters started in all 78 games he played. Bridgeman played both guard and forward well, started in 19 games and averaged over 20 minutes per game. Meyers showed outstanding rebounding potential, banging the boards hard in 34 starts at the strong forward slot. Slowed by a knee injury, he rallied to have an outstanding playoff series against Detroit.

The Bucks posted a 38-44 record in 1975-76, identical to that achieved by the Los Angeles Lakers and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. Bob Dandridge was named to the NBA West All Stars and had his best season ever, averaging 21.5 points per game while ranking among the top ten scorers in the league. The Bucks finished first in the Midwest Division for the fifth time in eight seasons. The Milwaukeeans were beat in the first round of the best-of-three playoff series 2-1 by Detroit. Coach Larry Costello signed a new two year pact just prior to the playoffs. In the 1976 college draft the Bucks selected Indiana All American and U.S. Olympian Quinn Buckner in the first round.

Bob Dandridge

The 1976-77 season saw a major shakeup within the organization. Just 18 games into the season Larry Costello resigned as Head Coach and Don Nelson took over the reigns. Other changes came about involving the club's management structure. A group headed by James F. Fitzgerald, William J. Blake and J. P. Cullen and Son Corporation purchased 361,000 outstanding shares of Milwaukee Professional Sports and Services common stock. Mr. Fitzgerald became Chairman of the Board and President of the corporation. Wayne Embry, formerly General Manager of the club, became a consultant thus relinquishing his duties on a day-to-day basis. What were formerly Embry's duties were then split between Don Nelson who handles player personnel matters and John Steinmiller who was promoted to Director of Business Operations in charge of the day-to-day functions of the club. On the court Bob Dandridge turned in a solid performance averaging 20.8 points over the season. Brian Winters and Junior Bridgeman also averaged in double figures as did Swen Nater who was traded to Cleveland which gave Milwaukee the first round draft choice they used to obtain Marques Johnson. Record-wise the 1976-77 season was a meager 30 wins against 52 losses. But to offset that mark was perhaps the best draft by any professional team in history. Behind the direction of Rick Sund, Don Nelson, and Wayne Embry the club drafted and subsequently signed three first round choices in Kent Benson, Marques Johnson, and Ernie Grunfeld. John Killilea, once a scout for the Bucks and more recently assistant coach of the Boston Celtics, joined Don Nelson in the coaching ranks as assistant coach and assistant Director of Player Personnel.

The 1977-78 season parlayed an exceptional draft of Benson, Johnson, and Grunfeld along with veterans Bridgeman, Buckner, Meyers, and Winters into an exciting season for a young team that as of yet did not have valuable playoff experience. Milwaukee finished the regular season with a 44-38 record. The fate of the playoff hopeful Bucks hinged upon Seattle beating Golden State on the final game of the 902 game NBA regular season schedule. The scene was a frustrating one for the Bucks as players, coaches, and fans alike stood anxiously by listening to the radio for a special play-by-play feed to the Sonics-Warriors game. Everyone felt helpless as their fate rested with a game they weren't playing. Seattle defeated Golden State sending the Bucks to pack the bathing suits in Milwaukee to head for Phoenix. Milwaukee swept the Suns 2-0 in the mini-series advancing to the Midwest Division final. It took Denver a tough seven games and the home court advantage to defeat Milwaukee and end a championship dream for the "Green and Growing" Bucks.

The image the Bucks created that year was one of youth and hope. The first full season under Don Nelson saw some changes, not all of which were on the court. The Bucks adopted their new familiar three-toned green striping on their uniforms and other paraphenalia, came out with a 45 record entitled Green and Growing, and numerous other exciting concepts. The result of all this could be felt at the gate where the Bucks averaged 10,711. 15 fans (.97012%) to top their all time attendance records. Also that year the Bucks set an all time NBA record winning eight overtime games.

In the next season, 1978-79, everyone expected Milwaukee to surpass their successes of the previous year. What with the core of the 1977-78 team intact, it was an easy assumption to make. But before the season began a vital cog on the Bucks club was lost. Alex English went to the Indiana Pacers via the free agent market. Then Dave Meyers was lost for all 82 games of the regular season due to a back injury. Those losses coupled with a few key injuries, saw the Bucks reversing their 44-38 record of the previous year to 38-44 and missing a playoff berth.

There were some bright spots however. Marques Johnson was named to the NBA All-Star team receiving more fan votes than any other player in the Western Conference. Later, Johnson was named to the NBA All-League team as a first team forward. Marques finished third in the NBA in scoring with a 25.6 average which was highest among all forwards and centers in the league. Junior Bridgeman finished the season with a 15.5 average, tops among all regular sixth men in the league. Kent Benson improved greatly over his rookie campaign while Brian Winters had his best scoring season ever. The Bucks 38-44 record placed them tied at third with Indiana in the Midwest Division. The club came on strong towards the end and won 16 of their last 26 games (.615%) including 6 wins in their last 9 road games. Milwaukee also shattered the NBA assist record with 2,562 on the year for a 31.2 average. The total attendance mark of 443,926 brooke all the records set one season before. The marks include 32 sellouts, an average of 10,827, and a capacity of 99%.

The Bucks rebounded with another Midwest Divison title during the 1979-80 campaign, posting a 49-33 record to squeeze out the Kansas City Kings by two games. The title qualified Milwaukee for its eighth playoff appearance in the club's twelve year history. It was a season of highs and lows as the Bucks sprinted to an early lead with an NBA high of ten consecutive victories only to lose six straight in December to close the cushion. Compounding the losing skid was the sidelining of Quinn Buckner with a recurring hamstring problem. By January the division lead swayed to Kansas City.

The All-Star break, highlighted by Marques Johnson's second straight starting role for the west squad, marked a turnaround for Milwaukee as Detroit dealt big Bob Lanier to the Bucks for Kent Benson and a number one draft choice. Lanier's inside scoring punch combined with Marques Johnson's outside touch vaulted the club into the winner's circle in 11 of the next 13 contests. All told, the club went 20-6 following the break and reclaimed the division lead for good in mid-March. Defense played a major role in that comeback, forcing the second place Kings into an NBA season low 72 points February 24 and Golden State into a League low third quarter total of 10 points March 8.

Milwaukee drew defending champion Seattle in the playoffs, eventually falling in the seventh and final contest at the Kingdome. The series was marked by an NBA record crowd (40, 172) in Game #5 and a Bucks' record-low first half point production (35) in Game #6. Games #1 and #2 were both highlighted by overtime play, the clubs each taking one contest. Seattle went on to play the eventual NBA champion Los Angeles Lakers for the Western Conference Championship.

The Bucks finished the 1980-81 season with a 60-22 record to become the 19th team in the history of the NBA to reach the magical 60 win plateau. It marked the fourth time in 13 seasons the club won 60 or more games. That record was attained by matching the club record for home court wins set during the championship year of 1970-71 with a 34-7 mark. On the road the club posted a 25-16 record, the best in eight seasons by Milwaukee and second to Boston in 1980-81. Also, Milwaukee became the 17th team in NBA history to lose no more than two games consecutively. Streaks were common for the team during the season. They ran off 10 in a row early in the season, 11 straight road games, and 16 in a row in the Arena. Also on the numbers front, the Bucks averaged 113.1 ppg — tops in the Eastern Conference — and allowed 105.9 ppg for an average margin of victory of 7.2 points per game. By virtue of their 60-22 record, the Bucks ran away with the Central Division title while earning a first round playoff bye.

Philadelphia earned the right to meet Milwaukee in the playoffs. For the Bucks it proved to be a virtual replay of previous playoff series under the Nelson regime. The club again was without the home court advantage and lost in the seventh game of the series to Philadelphia in the Spectrum by one point.

The Bucks captured their third straight division title ending the 1981-82 season with a 55-27 mark to top the Central Division. It marked the second straight Central Division title and third consecutive division title. It was also the second straight year Milwaukee posted the largest season-ending division lead in the NBA (13 games). To have such a successful season, Milwaukee had to overcome such adversities as an 18 game holdout by All-Star Marques Johnson at the start of the season and weather the storm of 114 player games missed due to injury necessitating 15 different starting lineups. Sidney Moncrief was unwrapped and his performance landed him a berth on the All-Star squad. Center Bob Lanier played in all but eight games and recorded more minutes played than all but two teammates. He too was named to the All-Star squad. Statistically, Milwaukee's 5.5 ppg winning margin ranked third in the League, 102.9 points defensively was 4th in the NBA, .505 team FG% was second best of any Milwaukee team, and a mid-season skein of 12 straight set a then NBA season mark.

Again Philadelphia earned the right to meet Milwaukee in the playoffs, but his time the short-handed Bucks succumbed to the Sixers in six games. Philadelphia went on to win the Eastern Conference championship before losing to the Los Angeles Lakers for the NBA title.

A fourth straight division title and four game sweep over the Boston Celtics highlighted the 1982-83 season for Milwaukee. Although injuries created a lot of shuffling of lineups, NBA Coach of the Year Don Nelson guided the team to a 51-31 record. Sidney Moncrief was named the NBA Defensive Player of the year and also to the All-League team while leading the club with a 22.5 scoring average. Teammate Marques Johnson, named to the All-Star team along with Moncrief, was a big plus for the Bucks, hitting for 1,714 points to lead the team. Winning 31 of 41 home games, Milwaukee ranked fourth in the League defensively yielding 102.2 ppg. The club hit .489% from the floor and .753% from the line. The Bucks set a franchise record blocking 532 opponent's shots and committed an all-time low 1,421 turnovers on the season. Due to the record low number of Milwaukee turnovers, a new opponent's season low for steals of 623 was established.

After the sweep over Boston, Milwaukee faced eventual NBA Champions Philadelphia in the finals of the Eastern Conference playoffs. The Bucks could only take one win from the 76ers but that was the lone loss suffered by Philly in the playoffs. Johnson again led the way during the second season averaging 22 points per contest.

Once again and for the fifth consecutive season the Bucks win their division while making the NBA's final four for the second straight year. Milwaukee finished the regular season 50-32 for their fourth 50+ win season in a row. Teamwise the Bucks led the League in defense allowing just 101.5 ppg while also leading the League in defensive field goal percentage (.456%). The club also set a new low water mark for turnovers (1,385 or 16.9 per game). Notable high was the 35,047 fans in the Detroit Silverdome for March 31 game with Pistons to set largest NBA regular season crowd in history.

Individually Sidney Moncrief was an NBA All-Star for the third time, was named to the Second Team All-League, the All-Defensive First Team, and was the Defensive Player of the Year for the second straight season since the inception of the award. Junior Bridgeman moved into first spot on the all-time games played list and Marques Johnson scored his 10,000th point in front of a national CBS audience.

Under the expanded playoff format the Bucks were pushed to five games before defeating Atlanta in the opening series, beat New Jersey 4-2 in the conference semi-finals, and lost to the Boston Celtics 4-1 in the Eastern Conference Finals.

1983-84 — Once again and for the fifth consecutive season the Bucks win their division (four in a row in the Central) while making the NBA's final four for the second straight year. Bucks defeated Atlanta 3-2 in the opening round while New Jersey was surprising defending champion Philadelphia winning all three games on the Sixers court. Milwaukee beat the Nets 4-2 and gained the Eastern Conference finals vs. Boston where they lost out 4-1. The Celtics went on to win the NBA title. Boston defeated Washington and Detroit before meeting up with Milwaukee.

BUCKS HIT SIX MILLION MARK IN ATTENDANCE

The six millionth fan to pass through the Arena doors since the inception of the team in 1968 came on November 30, 1983 when the Bucks met the Denver Nuggets.

RETIRED NUMBERS

They hang prominently on the Milwaukee Arena's north wall. Numbers 1, 14 and 32 are the numbers which were worn by three of the Milwaukee Bucks' greats.

The numbers have been retired, never to be worn again by a Bucks player — perhaps because nobody could ever wear them with as much class as the three individuals who wore them in the past.

Oscar Robertson — The Big O — wore Number 1 when he helped lead the Bucks to the NBA championship in 1970-71. Jon McGlocklin filled Number 14 during the days he was sinking rainbow jumpers from "downtown." And Brian Winters wore Number 32 during his outstanding eight year career with the Bucks.

Of course, Robertson usually heads any list of all-time NBA great guards. The Big O scored more points (26,710), has more assists (9,887), sank more free throws (7,694) and played in more games (1,035) than any guard in the history of pro basketball.

He earned the League All-Star Game MVP award three times, the overall regular season MVP trophy in 1964 and was Rookie of the Year. He was selected All-NBA 11 times.

Robertson's career started at Crispus Attucks High School in Indianapolis, Indiana, where he was Indiana's Mr. Basketball in 1956. After high school, Oscar starred at the University of Cincinnati. He was a three-time All American, led all major college scorers for three seasons, and was selected the collegiate Player of the Year twice. All told, he set 14 NCAA records.

The Big O also played on the Pan American Championship team in 1959 and served as co-captain of the 1960 U.S. Olympic team.

Robertson was selected in the NBA draft by the Cincinnati Royals and quickly established himself as one of the premier guards in the League. During his years in Cincinnati, he played with Wayne Embry, now a Bucks' vice-president.

However, the NBA championship eluded him until he came to Milwaukee in 1970 in exchange for Flynn Robinson and Charlie Paulk. Robertson provided the floor leadership the Bucks needed.

Teaming with Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Jon McGlocklin, Bob Dandridge and Greg Smith, along with Lucius Allen, Bob Boozer and Dick Cunningham in reserve, the Big O led the Bucks to a 66-16 regular season record.

The Bucks went on to dispose of San Francisco and Los Angeles in separate five-game playoff series, and then swept the Baltimore Bullets in four straight to win the NBA championship. Robertson played three more seasons with the Bucks before retiring.

On April 28, 1980, the Big O was unanimously inducted into the Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass., becoming the first Buck in the Hall.

Jon McGlocklin teamed with Robertson at guard during the championship season and was a Buck mainstay for 8 seasons. A star at the University of Indiana, McGlocklin was drafted by the Royals in 1965. He played two seasons for that team and a third with the San Diego Rockets before the Bucks selected the former Indiana Hoosier in the 1968 NBA expansion draft.

A pure shooter and tenacious competitor, McGlocklin averaged 12.5 points a game over his eight years with the Bucks and his .505 field goal percentage ranks among the top 20 field goal shooters in NBA history.

"Jonny Mac" has stayed close to the game and the Bucks as a broadcaster on WTMJ radio, WVTV television and the Sportsvue Cable Network. He also has worked for the USA Cable Network.

McGlocklin and former Brewer Sal Bando are partners in the Bando-McGlocklin Investment Company, Inc.

Jon has been involved in numerous charitable organizations. Among these has been The MACC Fund (Midwest Athletes Against Childhood Cancer), which was formed upon his retirement as an active player in 1976. The fund generates revenue to support research in the childrens cancer battle.

Brian Winters' number joined those of Robertson and McGlocklin on October 28, 1983, after he ended a nine year playing career. An All-American at the University of South Carolina, Winters was drafted by the Los Angeles Lakers on the first round of the 1974 draft. He was named to the NBA All-Rookie team as a Laker after averaging 11.7 points a game in 68 contests.

Winters was dealt to the Bucks as part of the Abdul-Jabbar trade on June 16, 1975. He immediately started to provide the long range shooting touch that previously had been supplied by McGlocklin.

Brian represented the Bucks in the NBA All Star game in 1975-76 and 1977-78. His best season was in 1977-78 when he averaged 19.9 points a game in the regular season and 20.4 ppg in the playoffs.

In his last couple seasons with the Bucks, Winters was plagued by injuries. That was a major reason for his tearful announcement on September 21, 1983, when he told a Milwaukee Pen and Mike sports media luncheon, "I'm history."

Winters spent some time after retirement working for a Milwaukee investment firm and doing television color commentary. He returned to basketball in June of 1984, taking an assistant coaching job at Princeton University.

A history major at South Carolina, Winters also has a master's degree in education from that university. His college and pro playing experience, coupled with his strong academic background, should in time combine to make him one of the rising coaching talents in collegiate basketball.

MILWAUKEE BUCKS
BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Jim Fitzgerald
President and Chairman of the Board

SPORTSVUE Cable Network has become more than just a different view of sports or pleasant diversion for Bucks Owner James Fitzgerald.

It has become his major preoccupation since he sold his 90,000-subscriber Total TV system to Jones Intercable, Inc., of Denver, Colorado, last February.

And the amiable "Fitz" has made it even more clear that the success of the network will determine the future of the Milwaukee Bucks as a viable financial enterprise.

His partnership with Brewers Owner Bud Selig has already begun to show fruit, Fitzgerald feels. Besides that, "I have gotten to know Bud much better" since they formed their cable coalition to bring more televised sports of local interest to the state's sports aficionados. "My respect for him is profound."

Selig has also indicated that the Brewers need the infusion that cable coverage is bound to bring.

Fitzgerald sees some rather promising signs on the horizon for the fledgling endeavor.

The cabling of Milwaukee is finally beginning this year and should be completed by the end of 1986. If the network is as successful as Fitzgerald and Selig believe, it could do much to increase the financial health of the Bucks. The eternal optimist in such matters, Fitzgerald and the Bucks recently signed a five-year pact with MECCA for the use of the arena and fully expects to see it through.

The $3.6 million salary cap the NBA has implemented for this season will "help like mad" in the Bucks' case, although Fitzgerald has hardly been frugal on pay day. He admitted the team is at the cap level, although he would prefer to be slightly under that.

"In time, I think this will help bring the New York and Los Angeles teams down to equal bidding status with the League's other teams."

The Bucks owner, president and chairman of the board believes the product will remain entertaining, even as the Bob Lanier era comes to a close.

"The news on Randy (Breuer) and Alton (Lister) has been real good this year, thanks to 'the Dobber' (Lanier) helping those guys while he approached the end of his career," Fitzgerald said.

He believes the Bucks might become even more exciting to watch than last year.

"I think they will be . . . the Bucks have been very predictable. But when you're less predictable, you're often more exciting," he said.

Fitz is glad he did not have to make the transition to a new coach this year as well, although he placed no pressure on Head Coach Don Nelson to stay on rather than head into the Bucks front office exclusively.

"Nellie is just an integral part of this Milwaukee franchise," the owner said. The new contract between the two men has the same underpinnings as it always has with Bucks' vice-presidents John Steinmiller and Wayne Embry.

"It's a lot more fun to operate that way and not have to run for contracts," Fitzgerald said. "It's the normal way I do business. Contracts are sometimes necessary in the sports world. They are often just an outgrowth of the sports world."

The Bucks stock in that microcosm may have been reduced somewhat since the terrific 1983-84 season, so will the Bucks be making any moves to strengthen the team? The signing of Paul Mokeski to a lucrative contract after Kansas City tried to lure him away shows some determination to maintain the viability of the product.

"We can go with what we have right now," he says about player personnel, although he acknowledges the strengthening of Detroit and some other divisional rivals over the off-season. "That is not to say that the phone isn't always open and we aren't ready to talk" about trades.

As for last year's effort, "I'm not sure what the fans expected, but I sure was happy."

Another source of happiness for Fitzgerald can be located on some of Milwaukee's finer fairways, but he has had little time for the links this year.

"This has been the least amount of golf I've played in about 20 years," he said, mostly because of his efforts to insure Sportsvue's success.

He has been considering various coalitions with similar cable products from St. Louis, Chicago, and Detroit, but has been concentrating on getting the Milwaukee product going.

"Then next year I can play more golf."

Fitz's continued good health since suffering a heart attack in 1981 is the best news for the Fitzgerald clan, consisting of wife Marilyn, daughters Ellen, Carolyn, and Marcia and sons Mike, Brian, and James, Jr.

His good health also insures the continued good health of Milwaukee sports for years to come, along with an expanded view of that world through Sportsvue.

Wayne Embry
Vice President and Consultant

Wayne Embry is a big man, and not just because he's 6'8" tall. His leadership and dedication has helped the Milwaukee Bucks become one of the most respected franchises in the NBA. His intelligence and business sense has helped him become one of the area's top executives. And his recognition of the needs of the community has made him a top civic leader.

Embry is presently a consultant and vice-president for the Bucks as well as being a member of the Bucks' Board of Directors. Embry, in his words, "Is there when the Bucks need me." He assisted the team in contract talks with Marques Johnson and recommended top draft pick Kenny Fields as a player and "as a person" to Coach Don Nelson.

Embry came to the Bucks in 1968 after he was chosen in the expansion draft. After a season when he averaged 13.1 points and 8.6 rebounds he retired. But even during a stint as director of recreation in Boston, Embry remained close to the Bucks. He convinced hall-of-famer Oscar Robertson that Milwaukee was the place for the "Big O" to finish his illustrious career. The discussions resulted in the trade of Robertson from Cincinnati to Milwaukee; a move which helped push the Bucks over the top into their 1971 world championship.

In 1972 Embry was named vice-president and general manager of the Bucks. During his six years, he was known most for his delicate handling of the Kareem Abdul-Jabbar trade to the Los Angeles Lakers; one of the biggest trades in NBA history.

"I felt Kareem had served the Bucks very well and we owed him the respect and consideration," Embry recalls. "He had the desire to be traded and we accommodated him."

"The trade" brought Elmore Smith, Dave Meyers, Brian Winters, and Junior Bridgeman to the Bucks. The later three players were mainstays in the Bucks consistently successful seasons of the late 1970's and 1980's.

Embry was the first black ever named to a top front-office position in the NBA and one of the first in professional sports.

Today Embry not only contributes to the success of the Bucks, but also to some top businesses. He is the president of the Michael Alan Lewis Co., which converts and fabricates fiberboard paper, insulation, and poly products for the automotive industry. Embry is also a marketing consultant for the G. Heileman Brewing Co. in LaCrosse.

In his spare time, Embry gives of himself to a seemingly endless amount of civic and charity organizations.

He's on the boards of Junior Achievement of Southeastern Wisconsin. Operation PUSH, the Medical College of Wisconsin, Athletes for Youth, the Wisconsin Heart Association and Milwaukee Children's Hospital. He is also a spokesman for Family Hospital's Sports Medicine Clinic and has appeared in their television commercials.

Embry also sits on a committee appointed by U.S. Senator Robert Kasten to select federal judges.

Wayne served on the ABA-USA Olympic Basketball Player Selection Committee, a select group of coaches and basketball experts responsible for selecting the players on the 1984 gold medal winning U.S. men's basketball team.

He holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Education from Miami University in Oxford, Ohio with a minor in business administration. He was elected to the Miami University Hall of Fame as well as being chosen to the five-man Silver Anniversary Team in 1983 by the National Association of Basketball Coaches.

Embry captained Miami's basketball team from 1956 to 1958 and was named All-Mid American Conference 1957-58. He also was the captain of the Cincinnati Royals from 1962 to 1966. After two years as a Boston Celtic, he was named Bucks captain during the 1968-69 season. Embry is a five-time NBA All-Star.

Wayne and his wife Terri are the parents of Debbi, 24, Jill, 23 and Wayne Jr., 21 and reside in Fox Point.

John Steinmiller
Vice President-Business Operations

John Steinmiller's youthful looks belie his position as vice president of a major professional sports franchise. Indeed with his boyish looks it seems like it was just yesterday that Steinmiller was president of the student body at nearby Marquette University.

The fact is Steinmiller graduated from Marquette 14 years ago and joined the Milwaukee Bucks staff as a full-time administrative assistant with duties ranging from ticket sales to publicity work. In 1972, at the age of 22, John put his bachelor's degree in journalism to work as the youngest publicity director in pro sports. He has risen through the ranks and took over the business end of the operation as director of business operations in 1977 before being named to his current position as vice president of business operations.

Steinmiller directs the business side of the Bucks franchise for owner Jim Fitzgerald. Combine his duties with those of head coach and director of player personnel Don Nelson and you would have what most teams would call a general manager's position.

"I look at every year as a different challenge," Steinmiller says. "The key to being successful in this business is always being prepared, something which we think we do very well."

As is the case every year, Steinmiller must work with the smallest playing facility in the NBA, the Milwaukee (MECCA) Arena. With limited seating and the limited television market that surrounds Milwaukee comes the problem of limited finances. And with that difficulty comes perhaps the most difficult part of this job.

Steinmiller also handles the marketing of the team. The Bucks have increased the number of promotion/giveaway nights from a mere handful in the early days of the franchise to over 25 in recent seasons. New "game events," such as post-game concerts have been added this year. Steinmiller believes in these innovations, in his words, "just so long as the product people come to see is the Milwaukee Bucks and not the promotion itself."

The Bucks maintain strongly that the focal point of everything the club tries to accomplish from a business standpoint, revolves around the "on-court" end of the operation. Steinmiller points out that the business end of the operation has enjoyed much success due to the fact they have been championship contenders for most of the team's history. "The franchise got off to a strong start with Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and the championship that soon followed (in 1971)," Steinmiller explains. "The Milwaukee sports fan respects the Bucks consistency and improvement and that helps our job greatly."

Steinmiller is a native of Mt. Prospect, Illinois and is a graduate of St. Viator High School. He serves as a board member of the Midwest Athletes Against Childhood Cancer (MACC) Fund and the Big Brothers-Big Sisters program. He is also a member of the Sales and Marketing Executives of Milwaukee.

John and his wife Corinne have one son, three-year old John Henry. The family resides in Milwaukee.

Don Nelson
Head Coach and Director of Player Personnel

Rebuilding may not be a four-letter word, but you might have a hard time convincing Bucks Head Coach Don Nelson of that.

After all, Nellie has always relied on the savvy of veterans.

But the proud ex-Boston Celtic and perfectionist head coach—NBA Coach of the Year in 1982-83—has nevertheless bravely decided to stay on as coach and help build another younger Bucks team into a contender.

There were more than a few doubts that Nelson, haggard and drained from the Bucks most successful quest for the NBA title in his tenure, would return without his dominating center, Bob Lanier. But just after the draft last spring, which Nellie saw as a good one, he decided to stay and see the Bucks through the traumatic period of rebuilding. How long that will take is anyone's guess.

"We'll be pretty young in the middle," without Lanier, "so we'll just have to play the kids and take what we can get," the coach said in a candid pre-season interview with HOOP. "On defense, we'll be going to a more open-court" offensive style.

Still, with the transition from the Lanier era, "we'll be missing that dominating-type center. That job will be pretty-well open," he said. He sees Lanier's acquisition as a fortunate fluke. "Otherwise, it's almost impossible to make trades for centers—or even good power forwards. So my evaluation of the team is I think we will be running more."

In that light, the acquisition of UCLA forward Kenny Fields in this year's draft will help considerably, Nelson said.

"It'll sure help if (Fields) can contribute right away," which the coach anticipates this season. "He gives us much more versatility."

But make no mistake about it. While the Bucks are aiming to definitely be in the playoffs, "this will be the first time in six or seven years that we haven't had extremely high goals set"—such as winning the NBA championship.

Nelson, a highly emotional coach, did not lightly enter into the commitment to build the team anew. He talked to a lot of other NBA head coaches and other NBA figures he respects and trusts.

"I've just got to do a lot better job of handling a losing situation when it occurs," said Nelson, who carries his burden well but often has the anguish of the job written on his face. The pacing along the sidelines, a loosened tie and coat, and the occasional tug back against the shock of hair reveal much about the drive to win that Nelson is possessed by.

"Any time you have younger players, you're going to be spending more time teaching," said Nelson of his upcoming squad. "And I've always been a guy who has preferred to have veterans. Rookies are usually just too mistake-prone."

What will make it tougher for Milwaukee this year is also the overall strengthening of other teams who are the Bucks arch-rivals, most notably the Detroit Pistons. Their acquisition of forward Dan Roundfield from the Atlanta Hawks figures to put the Pistons atop the division, when combined with the Bucks loss of Lanier, Nelson said. He also pointed to Chicago's drafting of Michael Jordan and the Philadelphia 76ers drafting Charles Barkley (the "Round Mound of Rebound") and Leon Wood, an Olympic team standout, as toughening those teams.

"Everybody has gotten better," said Nelson.

If there are some chinks in the armor this year, Nellie will have the memories of the 1983-84 season to help him make it through. While the Bucks did not win it all, "Last year was just a beautiful year. Everything broke almost perfectly for us. We won the division on the last day. We were in the finals in the East. You cannot have a better year than we had other than to have won it all."

And stranger things have happened in the NBA than to have the Bucks come back strong in 1984-85. The presence of Nelson, considered a brilliant floor tactician, will certainly be a major plus. Just as importantly, he came back because he wanted to come back. No one pressured him into it. Nellie could have easily retired from this hectic occupation and become more actively involved in the general manager duties which he also bears now along with coaching.

He consulted with Bucks owner Jim Fitzgerald.

"Fitz pretty much wanted me to do what I felt was best for me. Otherwise, he never really gave me his opinion on whether I should continue as coach," Nelson reported.

If he does have a younger team on the court, it may not be as injury prone as his teams of the past, he agreed. He did add that injuries were not a big factor during last season, which may account for the Bucks high finish.

Nelson, a University of Iowa grad and a product of a Midwest farm, apparently does not feel the lure of the East Coast, where he played 11 years, stringing together 465 consecutive games and scoring 10,000 points. He has certainly had the offers.

He points to his special relationship with Fitzgerald—their contract each year consists of a hand shake—as a major reason he stays with the Bucks. He was hired as successor to Larry Costello and, after only 18 games in the 1976-77 season, Costello resigned and Nelson took charge. The job has been his ever since and he has grown into it just as his "green-and-growing" Bucks were maturing in their roles. To this day, his juxtaposition of draft choices with the Pistons—in which they paid Milwaukee to draft just ahead in the first round to get Greg Kelser—still ranks as one of the shrewdest moves in NBA history. The Bucks ended up with Sidney Moncrief.

So Nelson has done both jobs well in that time and is apparently willing to suffer through what he believes may be some rebuilding years to bring added glory to the franchise.

A few years from now, maybe Bucks fans will be looking back at this period and think of rebuilding as being synonymous with success . . . and both the result of a six-letter word—Nelson.

As one of the few NBA coaches to win 300 games so early—he accomplished that feat last season—Nelson already epitomizes success to most Bucks fans. As long as he is captain of the ship, the team may face a few rough spots, but it should always be full steam ahead, with little fear of capsizing.

Mike Schuler
Assistant Coach

Want a great trivia question? What Bucks coach had an undefeated season in 1983? The answer: Mike Schuler.

Yes, the Bucks' assistant coach had an undefeated record in his short stint as a fill-in during head coach Don Nelson's suspension last year.

For the remainder of the season, Schuler provided an excellent backup for Nelson.

"Nellie's the head man and I'm glad to see him back," Schuler responded upon Nelson's return. "I have no problems working with Nellie's system. Our philosophy is very similar."

Schuler freely admits his ultimate goal is a head coaching spot, and there had been some talk that he might get that chance with the Bucks this year. Nelson had talked about taking one year off from active coaching, and Schuler most often was mentioned as his replacement. However, Nellie decided to stay on, and Mike will once again provide able assistance.

When that head coaching spot comes, Schuler will be well prepared. The native of Portsmouth, Ohio has a solid background in the game.

He attended Ohio University in Athens, Ohio, where he played for Coach Jim Snyder. After graduation from OU, Schuler spent three years in high school coaching and a year with Bobby Knight's NIT-bound Army team.

In 1966, he returned to his alma mater. He served as Snyder's assistant for three years. During that time, the team won two Mid-American conference Titles and made a trip to the NIT.

From 1969 to 1972, Schuler was head coach at the Virginia Military Institute. He spent five years, from 1972 to 1977, at the University of Virginia. During that time Virginia won an ACC championship in 1976 and had a near miss in 1977, losing to North Carolina in the title game.

Schuler had his greatest collegiate success at Rice University, where he served as head coach from 1977 to 1981. He was named Southwest Conference co-Coach of the Year in 1980, when Rice had its winningest season in a decade.

In 1981, an opening came up in the NBA. Larry Brown was looking for an assistant at New Jersey. The Nets were building with young, talented players, and Schuler's collegiate experience seemed to make him the perfect person to work with the kids.

During Mike's years with the Nets, the team won 44 games in 1981-82 and 49 in '82-'83. Schuler also coached the Nets Summer League team and compiled a 25-5 record. The team won the league title in 1981 and went to the semi-finals in 1982.

When Brown resigned to take the head coaching job at the University of Kansas, Schuler started to look elsewhere. Nelson needed an assistant after John Killilea went to the Nets, and Mike ended up in Milwaukee.

After a year in Beertown, Schuler has settled into the area's lifestyle. Wife Gloria and he have two daughters, Kimberly and Kristin, who attend college in Texas.

Garry St. Jean
Assistant Coach

Bucks Assistant Coach Garry St. Jean might be considered a bigamist after what he did this summer . . . he was married for a second time.

Mary Jane O'Sullivan was her name, before the coach added St. Jean to the end of it. Forturnately for the Bucks, she will apparently be understanding about his other marriage — to his job.

She found out about that first tryst soon after they met, while she was performing her duty as a flight attendant and he was traveling for his other love. He says Bucks Vice President Wayne Embry even helped serve as a match-maker on that fateful trip to Dallas, so the marriage must be basketball blessed.

St. Jean's basketball work is very possessive of his time. After all, he really has the job of being a Bucks bench coach as well as a key scout of college talent for the team. Mary Jane is herself busy in her flight attendant's job. So that should keep both of them out of their home in Whitefish Bay during most of the regular season. During the summers, St. Jean still will head to Cape Cod for recreation and relaxation.

Even one of the NBA's younger assistants (at 34) deserves a brief respite. Last year, he only missed seven regular season games despite all his traveling in his scouting duties. That came during the Aloha Classic in Hawaii, which is hardly tough duty anyway.

The scout-coach is hardly complaining, however. In fact, he rather enjoys his role as "Jack-of-all-trades."

"I still enjoy evaluating talent but I like the technical aspects of the coaching too," he said.

The coaching job might be a little more involved this year, as with younger players and some new faces on the scene.

"But I hope by now, in this fifth year, that I know what the job is about," St. Jean said. "We'll probably have a different style, with no dominant man. And we'll probably run more."

Not as much as St. Jean will be running, probably.

At least this season when he travels, he might actually be able to see two wives instead of just one so he won't have much chance to get lonely.

Besides being married this past summer, St. Jean was also busy helping teach at Coach Nelson's basketball camps. He expects the Bucks to be able to fill a lot of potential voids with up-and-coming stars.

With his Masters degree in Physical Education from Springfield College in Massachusetts, along with his wealth of pro experience, if anyone ought to know, it should be St. Jean.

Jeff Snedeker
Trainer

Bucks Trainer Jeff Snedeker was in sports medicine before anybody was even calling it that — "before everybody else jumped on the bandwagon."

During his 25 years of work in the field — and on the court — he has seen practically every type of injury. He has treated the wobbly knees of Joe Namath and Bob Lanier and also enjoyed the training needed for a natural athlete like soccer's famous Pele or the Bucks', Sidney Moncrief.

"When Marques is at the top of his game, he's the finest natural athlete I ever saw," Snedeker said, which is quite a compliment indeed.

The Bucks as a team enjoyed fewer injuries than they had in a long time, at least to key personnel. Snedeker claims little credit, saying that "no one can really prevent injuries. You can do some strength training. But all the traveling involved in basketball makes a formal program difficult."

Snedeker is probably better off in basketball than football, where he says the rate of injuries is much higher because of contact. Before coming to the Bucks, he worked 14 years with the New York Jets football team, two years with the New York Cosmos of the NASL, and a brief stint as the trainer for visiting teams at Madison Square Garden and as substitute trainer for the New York Knicks.

The Bucks trainer literally takes his work home with him. After he is done with the Bucks duties, he also operates two facilities called "The Sports Clinic," in Wauwatosa and Fox Point. He serves athletes from the Bucks, Brewers, and Admirals there. He has also been a lecturer in physical education at Barnard College in New York while teaching graduate courses in sports medicine.

Snedeker earned his Master of Science degree in athletic training from Indiana University. While the field is not likely to produce any miracle workers, Snedeker is particularly proud of the time he had quarterback Joe Namath throwing a football again only three weeks after a third degree shoulder separation.

But he said a lot of an athlete's durability depends on his own unique mechanical approach to the game. Trainers cannot change that. They can only try to help prevent injuries and then treat them once they occur.

Snedeker consults with his peers in many professional organizations, including The Great Lakes Athletic Trainers Association, the National Athletic Trainers Association, the American College of Sports Medicine, and the Association of Fitness in Businesses. He has been appointed secretary-treasurer of the NBA Trainer's Association this season.

Snedeker resides in Whitefish Bay with his wife, Joy, and four children. Cheryl, Connie, Karen, and Kathy.

Bill King II
Director of Publicity

Now in his eighth season as Director of Publicity for the Milwaukee Bucks, Bill King II is constantly striving for more efficient means of disseminating information to the media and public.

It is King's office that serves as the conduit between the coaching staff, players, and business side of the club to the media and fans. "I approach the position as an information service that is best served by keeping the existing lines of communication open and exploring new avenues to reach the public."

The avenues through which that information passes are varied. They range from the written — news releases, media guides, the Hoop game program and other official publications of the club — to radio and television broadcasts and programming. King also directs the Bucks speakers bureau and film library and is responsible for general management of Bucks home games. Under King's direction, the Bucks were the first NBA team to implement a courtside computerized scoring system to tabulate and distribute statistics to the press.

King joined the Bucks in 1977 after a stint as the assistant promotions director at Tulane University in New Orleans. A New Jersey native, King graduated from Morris Harvey College in West Virginia where he was the nation's youngest Sports Information Director. In June of 1984 he received an honorable mention award through the NBA Public Relations Directors Association and Phillips Petroleum Corporation for his work with the Bucks.

Bill and his wife Shelley call Waukesha their home.

Bea Westfahl
Ticket and Office Manager

Perhaps it's because she is a former music teacher. But for the past 16 seasons, Bea Westfahl has orchestrated one of the most efficient office operations in the NBA.

Mrs. Westfahl is the Bucks' ticket and office manager, a position that's much more complicated than it looks. She directs the mail, phone, over-the-counter, and group ticket sales, while servicing the thousands of season ticket accounts.

To add a "personal touch," she also works closely with the Bucks season ticketholders in the selection of seat locations and other services they may need during the course of the season.

Fortunately, Mrs. Westfahl gets valuable assistance from a competent seven-person office staff.

Bea joined the Bucks in 1969 after nine years as the head of concessions and grandstand operations for the Wisconsin State Fair Park.

Born in Wauwatosa, raised in West Allis, Mrs. Westfahl shares her hours away from the office with her husband Don, a retired Milwaukee fireman. They are the parents of three sons and have two grandchildren.

Though her teaching career is behind her, Bea still enjoys music, especially the piano. She at one time was a private music instructor in the area.

During the summer months, when Bea's office hours are less demanding, she enjoys the outdoors, especially time with the family on Tichigan Lake.

Chuck Reupert
Controller

Keeping a watchful eye on the day-to-day finances of the Milwaukee Bucks is Chuck Reupert, the team's controller for the last 14 years.

Since joining the Bucks from a local manufacturing firm, Reupert has operated under two sets of owners. He believes they are the reasons why the Bucks remain one of the most stable operations in the NBA.

"Both were in responsible financial shape," Reupert says. "There isn't a lot of coming and going within the organization as there is with some other teams."

Not only is Chuck a respected businessman, he has also developed a strong reputation as a sports car builder, driver, and racer. A 25-year racing veteran and former Class D Midwest champion, Chuck continues to race during the off-season. Despite a brief sabbatical from racing in the mid-1970's because of triple-bypass heart surgery, Reupert remains a force in Midwest sports car racing.

Chuck attended Boys Tech High School, the University of Wisconsin, and the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee (UWM). He served as an infantry squad leader in Korea and was a third officer in the U.S. Maritime Service in World War II.

Chuck is the father of twin sons, Mike and Mark. He, his wife Susie, and their eleven-year-old son Sean Live in Milwaukee.

Fr. Gene Jakubek, S.J.
Chaplain

As the only chaplain in the NBA, it is the job of Fr. Gene Jakubek, S.J., to be able to relate to the players and their many problems.

But perhaps the good father took his mission one step too far this time. Over the off-season, as it were, the affable Fr. Gene was operated on — twice — by the same Bucks surgeon, Dr. David Haskell, who operates on the Bucks' players.

A sports aficionado even as a young man, the father suffered a spinal injury playing football. The spine was corrected, but arthritis set in, eventually affecting both hips. The left hip was operated on in June and the right hip in October.

The injuries have done little to slow Fr. Gene in his many humanitarian works, just one of which is serving the needs of the Bucks players and families. Fr. Gene recognizes that service as a unique one, this being his eighth year at it.

"Mr. Fitzgerald said some years ago that the Celtics had a team chaplain," when he contacted Fr. Gene to resurrect the idea for the Bucks. "It was an ideal situation . . . and so many of the football teams have them. I am there for reference, to be a friend, to be interested. It is gratifying that I am able to help. The basketball players are just human. They need to lean on someone."

Fr. Gene is also active throughout the Greater Milwaukee area. He is well known, partly through his popular TV show, "The Answer Is Love," aired locally and on national cable TV.

Fr. Gene is also deeply involved in "Father Gene's HELP — Happiness for the Elderly, Lonely, and Poor." The program has over 2,400 volunteers who work to feed, clothe, and entertain the city's less fortunate. The program reaches over 100,000 such cases each year..

He has also assisted in raising $1 million annually for the past 26 years to help the Jesuit Seminary Guild.

MONCRIEF IN ALL-STAR GAME

Sidney Moncrief was the leading vote-getter among NBA Eastern Conference guards and helped the East to a 154-145 victory over the West in Denver on January 29, 1984 before a crowd of 17,500. Moncrief contributed eight points, five rebounds and a game high five steals in his 26 minute effort. It was the third straight All-Star appearance for Sid and his first as a starter.

Tom Hoffer
Equipment Manager

The title of equipment manager is much too narrow to describe Tom Hoffer's duties.

In his ninth year in the position, Hoffer concerns himself with everything from purchasing Bucks team equipment to supervising promotional events to videotaping professional and college games for scouting purposes.

A Bucks ball boy for two years, Tom's inaugural season as equipment manager was the 1973-74 season and he says that his job enables him to do what he likes best — work with people.

"I like the variety of my job and the public contact couldn't be equalled anywhere," proclaimed the 27-year-old Hoffer. "I keep odd hours but it's great."

The video taping includes the recording of nearly 500 professional and college games a year for scouting purposes, while he also purchases everything from socks to jerseys for the players. In addition, he serves as a special events coordinator, and directs the Bucks Boutique which stocks novelties and team merchandise.

A Milwaukee native, Tom graduated from Bayview High School and then went on to attend the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. He is a sports enthusiast and also enjoys woodworking.

Jim Irwin
Voice of the Bucks

At times during the Bucks' season, it's possible to listen to the voice of Jim Irwin four or five times during a single weekend.

It's not uncommon for WTMJ's Irwin to broadcast a Wisconsin Badger football game, a Green Bay Packers contest and two Bucks' games in one weekend. This pace seems exhausting, but Irwin has been enjoying it for several years now.

"I love what I do," Jim says. "If I can continue to do play-by-play, I'll be the happiest guy around."

Part of Irwin's success is due to his outlook on his job.

"I'm the link between the action on the court and the fans in their home or in their cars. It is my responsibility to bring them a factual account and an entertaining account of the game," he said.

Irwin has been the link between Bucks action and fans for five seasons. He has done Packer and Badger football games for 15 years and also has handled UW basketball games. Earlier in his career, Irwin broadcast UW-Milwaukee basketball games. He also has done the Greater Milwaukee Open golf tournament, the Indianapolis 500, numerous other major events and has handled commentaries and sportscasts on both WTMJ radio and television.

This experience has made Irwin a solid pro, a fact that has not gone unrecognized by his peers who have selected him Wisconsin Sportscaster of the Year several times.

Irwin started his career at a small station in his native Missouri. He was playing "foot stomping music" in Osage Beach, Missouri, and entered sportscasting by doing some local high school games..

After receiving his degree from the University of Missouri, Irwin came to Wisconsin in 1964 to do Packer games for a Green Bay station and the popular "Packerama" program. In 1969, WTMJ offered him a job as color man alongside Ted Moore for Wisconsin football broadcasts. When Moore left the following year, Irwin inherited the play-by-play position.

He also started filling in on Bucks games in 1977, whenever regular play-by-play man Eddie Doucette did a television game. When Doucette left for the West Coast, Irwin was selected as his replacement in 1979-80.

"Eddie was so important to the Bucks. He helped build an audience," Irwin said of his predecessor. "I think we've been able to retain that audience and hopefully cultivate a new audience as well."

Irwin has had opportunities at other stations in bigger markets, but likes his work in Milwaukee.

"About the only offer I'd ever consider would be from a network," he said. "I've just had such a good job here at WTMJ. It's hard to think of anything that could top it."

A family man, Irwin married his childhood sweetheart, Gloria, who has written documentaries for Channel 10 in Milwaukee. The couple has two children, Anne, a college student, and Jay, who attends Whitefish Bay High School.

CENTRAL DIVISION RACE

The Bucks won their fourth straight Central Division title in 1984 on the last day of the regular season. Milwaukee and Detroit entered the final game tied for first. If the two teams remained tied the Pistons would be the champions based on head-to-head competition — Detroit beat the Bucks 3-2 on the season. Milwaukee emerged victorious as they defeated Indiana and Atlanta downed Detroit in the 82nd game. Thus the Bucks won the title by one game over the Pistons. During the season the Bucks had dropped as low as third, 1½ games behind Atlanta and Detroit on February 8. However, as the Hawks faded from the race Milwaukee and Detroit stayed close right down to the wire. Since coming into the division in the 1980-81 season, the Bucks had never trailed as late into the season as they had last year.

Jon McGlocklin
Color Analyst

After his playing days were over, Jon McGlocklin had little doubt about where he was going to stay.

"Jonny Mac" had learned to love Milwaukee during his years with the Bucks, so he stayed right here and has become a fixture in this community.

Of course, McGlocklin is best known for his broadcasts of Bucks' games. This year, he will split his time between WTMJ radio, WVTV television and the Sportsvue Cable Network. He previously also did NBA games for the USA Cable Network.

McGlocklin has become an adept announcer, both on radio and TV.

"I had some good instructors in Eddie Doucette and Jim Irwin," McGlocklin said. "There's a lot more to doing a game than most people realize, but it's something I seemed to take to rather quickly and I enjoy it."

McGlocklin has been involved in several business ventures in the area over the past few years. Currently, he is vice-president of the Bando-McGlocklin Investment Company, Inc., a partnership operated with former Brewer Sal Bando.

Jon also has been generous with his time in local charitable organizations. Prime among these has been the MACC (Midwest Athletes Against Childhood Cancer) Fund, which was formed upon his retirement as an active player in 1976.

The MACC Fund helps support research to discover effective treatments and cures for childhood cancer. The primary benefactor of MACC Fund monies is the Midwest Children's Cancer Center at Milwaukee Children's Hospital, one of the few exclusively pediatric cancer research facilities in the country.

Jon also has been active in Athletes for Youth, the Wisconsin Society to Prevent Blindness, the Wisconsin Easter Seal Foundation and other charitable organizations.

A native of Franklin, Indiana, Jon and his wife Pam make their home in Greendale with their two children, Shannon and Meghan.

Eddie Doucette
TV Announcer

Listen to just about any Bucks fan at the Arena on any given night, and you'll likely hear him use terms like "toaster," "sky hook," "on the trampoline" and "in the land of the giants."

And it's likely he picked up those terms by listening to the colorful Eddie Doucette describe Bucks' action over the years. Doucette's vernacular has become famous, not only in Milwaukee but nationwide.

Several years ago, one newspaper published a dictionary of Doucette's terms. Today, those terms are part of just about any Buck fan's vocabulary.

Doucette is back with the Bucks this year, doing games on WVTV, Channel 18.

Eddie is one of the original members of the Bucks organization and played a significant role in building interest in the early days of the franchise.

He also became an integral part of the Milwaukee community, working in various civic and charitable activities. He started the Midwest Athletes Against Childhood Cancer Fund along with Jon McGlocklin, an activity he lists as his "single most important contribution to society."

In 1979, Doucette moved his family to California, mostly because of his son's illness, which mandated the West Coast climate. However, Eddie remained with Bucks' broadcasts, and in fact, expanded his professional activities.

He did NBA basketball on USA Cable Network, as well as handling Thursday night major league baseball, pro tennis, track and field, golf and other sports. He also has hosted magazine format programs for pay TV networks in Texas and California.

Milwaukee viewers were able to see him on commercials for MBTI, Salentine Pontiac-Buick and Classified Insurance among others. All these activities have been coordinated through Doucette Promotions Inc.

Of all these activities, Eddie's labor of love is still the work with Bucks games. He admits that he feels free to display his style in Milwaukee, more than in his other work. Yet, he has toned down some of his vernacular.

"When I first took the job, I was told to create some enthusiasm," Doucette said. "I've changed some since then, because we're no longer an Edsel — we're a Cadillac.."

Still Bucks' fans wouldn't want Eddie to tone down his Doucette-isms too much. They have become part of the game for Milwaukee fans.

Tom Pipines
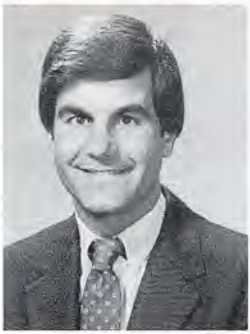
SportsVue Announcer



A familiar face to sports fans in the Milwaukee television market joins the Bucks broadcasting crew this season. Tom Pipines is an experienced play-by-play man who has served as a sports anchor at eight television stations including his current assignment for WITI-TV 6, Milwaukee's CBS affiliate.

Tom began his career in broadcasting at Ithaca College in Ithaca, New York where he majored in television and radio and graduated with honors. After graduation he served as a news anchor and news director of a TV station in Ithaca and continued on as a sports anchor in the Utica and Syracuse markets. In Syracuse Tom was the radio voice of the Triple "A" International League Syracuse Chiefs Baseball Club and the play-by-play announcer for the Syracuse University Orangemen and their televised basketball games. After a stop in Rochester, New York, Pipines joined ESPN, the nation's foremost sports cable network.

After a year and a half as prime sports anchor at ESPN, Tom came to Milwaukee in December of 1981 as an anchor with the local NBC affiliate, WTMJ-TV 4.

Pipines will be joined courtside for 33 regular season games by one of the original Bucks, Jon McGlocklin on the SportsVue telecasts. Said SportsVue President Joe O'Neill, "Tom represents everything that SportsVue wants in our play-by-play commentators. He is experienced in play-by-play, has a strong following in the Milwaukee area, and has tremendous credibility and acceptance from viewers. We are fortunate that WITI-TV has allowed him to pursue this opportunity while handling important 6 p.m. anchor duties as well. We feel that he will bring a lot to our telecasts."

LANIER JOINS ROBERTSON, MCGLOCKLIN, AND WINTERS AS BUCKS RETIRE JERSEY

The Milwaukee Bucks retired uniform number 16 in honor of retired fourteen year NBA veteran center Bob Lanier. Lanier's number 16 joins Brian Winters' number 32 which was retired October 28, 1983, Jon McGlocklin's number 14, September 17, 1976 and Oscar Robertson's number 1, retired March 26, 1974.

Bob announced his retirement from the Milwaukee Bucks and NBA basketball on September 24, 1984 at a press conference at the Hyatt Regency in Milwaukee. At the time the All-Star center said, "Today's decision is the result of a great deal of mind and soul-searching for me. I wanted to be a productive part of a team, I wanted to make a difference if I played, and I am not sure that I could get through another season. A part of me still lusts for the challenge, but my mind tells me it's time. From a physical standpoint, continuing to play would have been further traumatizing to my knees and my body. My family has seen what playing does to me, and my wife tells me 'Don't do it!' It's time to step back and start a new chapter. It's been a great story thus far," he concluded.

Head Coach and Director of Player Personnel Don Nelson commented, "Bob has been a remarkable athlete throughout his NBA career. It's been a privilege to be able to coach him, and to have as solid a player-coach relationship as one could ask for. Bob has given everything possible throughout his career, he's been a leader on and off the court, " continued Nelson. "I, as a coach, have benefited immensely from having coached him.

His input as a player was extremely helpful to me. Bob Lanier is truly an "old pro" in the best sense of the term. NBA basketball will miss his character and his personality," Nelson said.

Lanier will continue with the club as a resource to Coach Nelson, and is expected to take part in work with the "big men" - forwards and centers - in training camp. "We want to use as much of Bob's knowledge and ability as we can as we develop our younger players," Nelson said. Lanier will also do some on-air television work during SportsVue Bucks telecasts and will do promotional work for the cable network as well. Lanier has established a corporation, Bob Lanier Enterprises, to which he will devote his full-time attention. The corporation will service businesses and corporations with advertising and promotional products, including premium and incentive merchandise. Lanier has been engaged in that business since last June. The corporation is headquartered at 18110 Bluemound Road, Suite B, in Brookfield.

Last season with Milwaukee Lanier played and started in 72 games and logged more minutes than in any single season since 1979-80. He averaged 13.6 points per game on the year, his highest of the last three seasons. He was 22 points shy of the 1,000 point mark for the year. Bob led the Bucks and was tenth in the NBA in field goal percentage with a .572% mark nearly matching the franchise season record of .577% set by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar in the 1970-71 Championship season. Defensively Bob tallied 58 steals and 51 blocked shots in his 72 efforts. He led the Bucks in rebounding 16 times on the season and scored in double figures 60 times. He registered ten double doubles (points and rebounds). His season highs for both scoring and rebounding occurred in the same game, vs. Dallas in the Arena which Bob led the Bucks with 25 points and 16 rebounds in 35 minutes of action.

Last season began with Lanier ranked 16th on the NBA all-time scoring list. He passed Dave Bing (18,327), Rick Barry (18,395), Chet Walker (18,831), and Gail Goodrich (19,181) to move into the 12th spot with 19,258 points all-time. Two more points by Lanier would move him into the eleventh spot on the NBA all-time scoring list, a spot now occupied by Dolph Schayes with 19,259 points. Lanier also passed Goodrich for the tenth spot on the NBA's all-time field goals made chart with 7,761. Lanier has appeared in a grand total of 1,026 regular season and playoff games in his 14 year professional career.

Other statistical achievements established by Lanier during the 1983-84 season include moving up on the Bucks all-time list for free throws made (785) and attempted (1,067) into the ninth position, and a current ranking as the tenth highest scorer in Bucks history with his 13.5 ppg average.

Upcoming milestones Bob likely would have attained during the 1984-85 season include: 41 games to reach 1,000 career regular season games, 302 rebounds to reach 10,000 career, 232 field goals to reach 8,000 career, and 752 points to attain the 20,000 career point level.

Bob originally came into the NBA as the first player chosen in the 1970 draft by the Detroit Pistons. He was an All-American selection for the St. Bonaventure Bonnies in his homestate of New York. Lanier often remarked that he "came into the NBA in a wheelchair and would probably go out in one." In the 1970 NCAA tournament, Lanier's St. Bonaventure squad met Chris Ford and Villanova. Lanier and Ford collided and Lanier attended the Pistons draft day proceedings with a toe to waist cast on a broken leg. Ironically Ford became a teammate of Lanier's with Detroit. Ford is now an assistant coach with the Boston Celtics. Lanier was named to the NBA All-Rookie team in 1971.

At the time of his acquisition by Milwaukee, Lanier was Detroit's all-time top career scorer, held career, season and game rebounding records, led in blocked shots, and was second in assists, steals, and free throws.

Lanier's arrival in Milwaukee had an immediate impact on the club as the Bucks won six straight games right after the All-Star break in 1980. Milwaukee continued to motor with Bob in the lineup going 20-6 after the break. Milwaukee won the Midwest Division title that season and took the Seattle SuperSonics to seven games in the Western Conference Semi-Finals before succumbing 98-94.

A seven time NBA All-Star, Bob was named the MVP of the classic in 1974. Additionally he was the MVP of a combined NBA-ABA All-Star extravaganza in the mid-70's.

Off the court, Bob turned over his position as President of the NBA Player's Association to Junior Bridgeman. In 1978 Bob was honored with the Walter Kennedy Citizenship Award as chosen by the Professional Basketball Writers Association of America. The award is based on citizenship, service to youth, leadership, and understanding. In 1981 the YMCA presented Bob with the Jackie Robinson Award for his contributions to interracial understanding and his work with the youth of our nation. At one time or another Bob has served as a spokesman for nearly every major charitable cause. Locally in Milwaukee he can be seen on television doing public service announcements for Big Brothers/Big Sister, Mothers Against Drunk Drivers (MADD), and the American Cancer Society among others.

Lanier has endured a total of eight operations on his knees. (The total is eight. The exact count as to whether it was four on each knee, five on the left and three on the right or vice versa has been clouded by time.) The last surgery was performed July 25 by Dr. David Haskell on Lanier's right knee. The arthroscopic surgery removed two loose particles of bone that had chipped off from his knee cap.

Bob and his wife Shirley have four children: Robert Jr., age 3; Tiffany, age 10; Kimberly age 11; and Jack, age 17. The family resides in suburban Mequon.

For the season the Milwaukee Bucks missed 84 player games due to injury. Over the last seven seasons (since '77-78, Nelson's first full year as head coach), the Bucks have totaled 565 player games missed due to injury or illness, an average of 80.7 per season. Those figures can be compared to the Bucks rival in the Central Division, Detroit, who over the past six seasons have totaled 740 plus games due to injury or illness, an average of over 123 player games missed each season. By year, here is the Milwaukee breakdown:
1977-78 — 20, 1978-79 — 99 (Meyers missed entire season due to bad back), 1979-80 - 52, 1980-81 — 41, 1981-82 — 106, 1982-83 — 163, 1983-84 — 84.

1983-84 STARTING LINEUPS

Injuries created a lot of shuffling, realigning and just plain piecing together last season for the Bucks starting five. Various maladies resulted in 23 different groupings for the opening tap.

That sound familiar? It's nearly the same lead on a similar note we came up with at the end of the previous two seasons. In 1981-82 the club "only" ran through 18 different starting combos. For the 1982-83 season the Bucks totalled 163 player games missed due to injury and withstood 27 roster changes leading to 23 different starting lineups. For the 1983-84 season 23 different lineups began the 82 regular season games. During the 1983-84 season there were 84 missed games due to injury and 12 roster changes.

The most frequent pairing in the manpower juggling act was Marques Johnson and Alton Lister at forward, Bob Lanier at center, with Tiny Archibald and Sidney Moncrief at guard. That starting five compiled a 22-10 record, a winning percentage of .688. That group answered the opening bell for the first regular season game on October 28 and made 23 more appearances as a group than any other combination. That particular lineup was tops in both wins and losses among the groups. But seven other pairings resulted in better won/loss percentages, albeit only for one or two games (group numbers 4, 6, 9, 11, 17, 22, and 23). However, the most successful grouping undoubtedly would have to be the one used in the playoffs. Group #21 below first appeared March 18 and posted a 7-2 mark, a winning percentage of .778.

Not one player appeared in every starting lineup. Even Alton Lister, who became only the tenth Milwaukee Buck in club history to play in all 82 games, appeared in just 15 of the 23 lineups. Sidney Moncrief came as close to answering the opening tap as anyone with appearances in 21 of the 23 opening lineups. Marques Johnson appeared in 16 of the combinations, Bob Lanier 15, Nate Archibald 10, Paul Pressey 8, Junior Bridgeman 7, Randy Breuer 6, Mike Dunleavy, Kevin Grevey, Paul Mokeski, and Lorenzo Romar with three apiece, and Harvey Catchings with two.

Here are the starting lineups and their records:
